Revision Timetable

- For the final session, you are to design your own revision timetable. This may take multiple sessions as you have to carefully consider what to include. Ensure your timetable is realistic and manageable. Factor in your other time commitments such as, sports clubs, responsibilities at home and any part time jobs or voluntary work before you add in your revision sessions. Also, don't forget to factor in regular breaks. Your brain will need it!

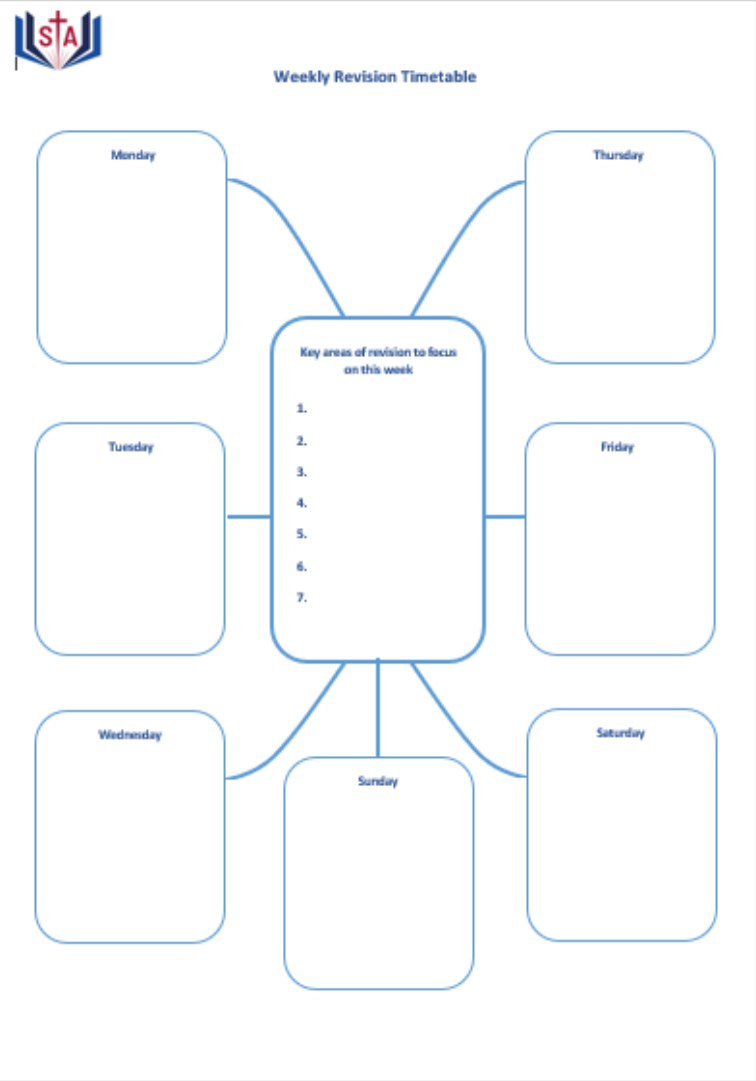

Filling out your timetable

1. First add any extra responsibilities
2. Then start to add your lessons
3. Start to think about what topics you need to revise and when you need to revise them. Remember to space out your revision so add subjects you studied on a Monday in school on a Wednesday or Thursday evening
4. Each session should be 30 minutes, including a 5 minute break
5. Include a variety of retrieval practice techniques to maximise your learning.
